

Climate

Â

Grenada can be enjoyed throughout the year, quite simply offering one of the most delightful climates in the world and with an average annual temperature of...

read more >

Grenada can be enjoyed throughout the year, quite simply offering one of the most delightful climates in the world and with an average annual temperature of around 82Â°, the sea temperature is always pleasant. September is the warmest month with very little rainfall, but even in the wetter months, rainfall tends to be heavy and short lived. Being south of the hurricane belt, Grenada also escapesÂ most of the depressions which can cause seasonal periods of oppressive grey skies and colder weather in the more northern Caribbean.

The gently cooling trade winds are typical and help to ensure that the climate of Grenada remains seductive and enjoyable all year round.